The Nature of Winter

The nature of Massachusetts is filled with seasonal mysteries waiting to be uncovered.

Have you ever wondered which animal left tracks in the snow? What happens to pond animals under a layer of ice? Or what trees are lining the trails on your winter walks?

This online program will introduce the seasonal dynamics of nature in winter, and provide ideas and resources for observing, appreciating, and supporting wildlife near home this winter.

Discover the Joys of Bird Feeding

Looking for a way to brighten your yard and mood this winter?

Backyard bird feeding is a wonderful way to attract birds to your property, still feel connected to nature while inside, and get to know the characteristics and behaviors of common birds.

We'll discuss different feeder types, the best seed to put in them, the birds they'll attract, how to outsmart squirrels, and other ways to encourage birdlife into your yard and community.

Introduction to Birds & Birdwatching

What are those intriguing birds in your neighborhood, along the roadways, and outside your windows—and what are they doing?

Find out what makes birds unique within the animal kingdom, where and how to locate birds in different settings, and basic bird biology and behavior.

You'll learn birdwatching basics from the experts, including various tools and resources for identifying and how to support local and global bird populations.

Birdwatching is one of the fastest growing life-long, recreational activities in North America—here's your chance to jump on the bandwagon and start this rewarding hobby.

Living with Wildlife in Massachusetts

We share Massachusetts with a diverse range of wildlife that you may have come across exploring your neighborhood or making headlines in the news.

Learn about commonly encountered wildlife such as deer, coyote, and raccoons, and their intersection with the wild and developed spaces we inhabit. Find out best practices for maintaining bird feeders and attracting visitors. From amazing pollinators to problematic mosquitoes and ticks, we'll introduce some incredible insects and how we impact each other.

Whether you watch it from your window or your screens, you'll learn more about how to peacefully co-exist with these unique neighbors here in the Commonwealth.

Landscaping & Gardening for Wildlife

Do you have a true green thumb?

Meaning, are you taking into account the complete ecosystem around the land you care for?

Learn how you can support local species by utilizing wildlife-friendly gardening practices in your home, business, and community settings.

Simple, easy actions like keeping fall leaves on the ground could have huge effects, and bring in more butterflies, come spring!

Learn about what to do, and not do, in your yard, garden, or even container, to support nearby birds, frogs, pollinators, and more in a sustainable fashion.
